Fewer than five years ago, Copenhagen authorities discovered an old, abandoned tin of Tutu juice stored in a Copenhagen museum, and shipped it back to the West African country of Ghana, where it was immediately reunited with its owner. In 2014, a London delivery truck driver gave a box of garlicky olives to a British restaurant. In 2015, a woman in New Jersey received a package of expired meat snacks - and promptly ordered a new brand from the freezer section of her local supermarket. In 2016, a Malaysian man received a large box of chocolate-covered barbeque meat snacks - until he realized it was a mistake and not much meat at all. And last year, a 20-something man in Austria retrieved a large can of peach juice that had been accidentally shipped to his flat, where he spent the rest of the night trying to figure out how to
